Mission Statement

To provide a forum on childhood gynecologic cancers for providers, patients and their families; to obtain current information for education and clinical trials; to develop a comprehensive referral resource center and registry; to advance research in childhood gynecologic cancers.

Our non profit organization, Childhood Gynecologic Cancer Association, is dedicated to providing information for families and medical professionals on childhood gynecologic cancers.

These cancers are rare, and until recently, minimal resources were available for families and health care providers.

Childhood Gynecologic Cancer Association is committed to connecting families and health care providers together for support, information, and research.

Goals

EDUCATION

Childhood Gynecologic Cancer Association website provides basic, as well as complex education on childhood gynecologic cancers. Information includes topics on cancers of ovary, uterus, vagina, cervix, and vulva. There is an updated list of articles from current and reputable medical journals, all on one site.

RESEARCH

A patient registry is being developed by Childhood Gynecologic Cancer Association. With a registry, there is a long term goal of reviewing the information for research on these conditions. As with all cancers, a cure can only come with research. Childhood Gynecologic Cancer Association is dedicated to raising money for research on the causes, treatments, and cures for childhood gynecologic cancers.

CONNECTIONS

Connecting health care professionals with families:

Childhood gynecologic cancers are rare, often making referral and finding support difficult. Childhood Gynecologic Association has a list of providers with experience and interest in childhood gynecologic cancers to assist in making connections.

Connecting families to families:

Making connections with other families for support is also important. A registry is being developed so that families can register and have an option of connecting with other families.
