Mission Statement

To provide a forum on childhood ovarian cancers for providers, patients and their families; to obtain current information for education and clinical trials; to develop a comprehensive referral resource center and registry;

To advance research in childhood ovarian cancers.

Our non profit organization, the Childhood Ovarian Cancer Association, is dedicated to providing information for families and medical professionals on childhood ovarian cancers.

These cancers are rare, and until recently, minimal resources were available for families and health care providers.

Childhood Ovarian Cancer Association is committed to connecting families and health care providers together for support, information, and research.

Goals

EDUCATION

Childhood Ovarian Cancer Association website provides basic, as well as complex education on childhood ovarian cancers.

RESEARCH

A patient registry is being developed by Childhood Ovarian Cancer Association. With a registry, there is a long term goal of reviewing the information for research on these conditions. As with all cancers, a cure can only come with research. Childhood Ovarian Cancer Association is dedicated to raising money for research on the causes, treatments, and cures for these rare cancers.

CONNECTIONS

Connecting health care professionals with families:

Childhood ovarian cancers are rare, often making referral and finding support difficult. Childhood Ovarian Association has a list of providers with experience and interest in these cancers to assist in making connections.

Connecting families to families:

Making connections with other families for support is also important. A registry is being developed so that families can register and have an option of connecting with other families.
